

Summer Learning

COVID has brought changes to many things but one of the things that has not changed for a school is the importance of reading in the summer. We are hoping your family will have some excellent vacation time but we encourage you to take a book along with you. The recommendations are a starting point until libraries open for browsers.

Summer Reading Recommendations

Students should spend 15-30 minutes reading each day. Below are some grade-level appropriate books that your child might be interested in. You may find a title you really like that is not listed below. We left off titles of books we will be reading in English class. Most area libraries are offering contactless holds pickup, and the links will direct you to the Henrico County Public Library:

Math Practice Platforms

These two platforms are available if you would like your child to do additional math practice this summer.

Khan Academy offers modules for math review for students of all ages. This is a free platform with 10-15 minute modules that students can complete to cement what they learned this year.

Lower School students may also continue to access the engaging content on Education.com, which Grove has provided for you.
